Turkey Pan Pie For Hearty Eaters

Turkey Pan Pie is a dish for hearty appetites, a full-flavored turkey and rice main dish that needs little in the way of accompaniments to make a most handsome main course.

There is a nice balance of good-for-the-family things in the casserole mixture. Apple makes for the unexpected touch of color and flavor that's always welcome. Celery adds crunchy succulence. Turkey furnishes prime quality protein for good nutrition as well as the dominant flavor. Rice, the invaluable grain, supplies body, unites flavors and extends the other ingredients in the most eye-catching, money-saving way.

Cooked rice is called for, and whatever kind of rice is used is entirely up to the family's or the cook's preference. There are four basic types to call on: precooked, parboiled, regular milled white or brown. And each will give A-OK results in terms of tenderness, light fluffiness, good taste and good nutrition when cooked following directions on the package.

A sweet relish, such as watermelon pickles and preserved kumquats, points up the savory good taste of Turkey Pan Pie.

Turkey Pan Pie

1 cup chopped onion
1 cup diced celery
2 medium apples, cored and tablespoons butter or

(in large pieces)

2 cups cooked rice

teaspoon marjoram teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper
 2 cans (101/2 ozs. ea.) cream of chicken soup

margarine of chicken soup
3 cups diced and cooked turkey 2 cups grated sharp cheese

Cook onion, celery and apples in butter until tender. Add turkey, rice and seasonings. Stir in soup. Mix thoroughly. Turn into a greased 2-quart casserole. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Remove cover. Sprinkle with grated cheese. Continue baking another 10 minutes.

Over a 30-year period, 40,000 mistakes in her account have been discovered and corrected. And the problem continues. Some 150 new mistakes are reported yearly by Social Security employees.

Mrs. Whitcher said the trouble began in 1938 when she worked in a Lockport, N. Y., wallet factory. Her boss borrowed her Social Security card, number 078-05-1120, and printed thousands of copies in red ink. The word "specimen" was superimposed across the center.

He enclosed a sample card in each wallet to show how the pass case was to be used. The wallets became quite popular. So did Mrs. Whitcher's card.

Social Security being new at the time, thousands of persons thought the billfold cards were theirs and reported their Social Security numbers accordingly.

Simple, I live in Massachusetts and I watched the team play on two occasions. This is more than comical, it is absurd, and I am sure you don't believe a word of it; some youngster might.

What about the parallel? In the article which I read, the incumbent Selectman, who lives in Massachusetts and has seen Gov. Oklahoma's Insurance Commissioner, Joe B. Hunt, didn't put it quite that way, to be sure. What he said was that failure to use seat belts could result in inability to collect traffic injury damages.

In Wisconsin, failure to fasten a seat belt is called "contributory negligence," and the Wisconsin Supreme Court ruled in a recent damage suit that if failure to use a seat belt contributed to the injury, the damage was selfcaused, thus reducing or barring the recovery of damages from the other driver.

Commissioner Hunt said insurance companies are expected to seek a similar ruling in other states, possibly including Oklahoma

Your Amazing Muscles

Hey, muscles!

Yes, you. Regardless of your body build, muscle tissue accounts for over half your weight. Obviously it's good policy to treat your "better half" right by learning how to avoid muscle strain and what

First line of defense is posture; your day's work can quite literally make you sore if you overtax your muscles by standing or sitting incorrectly. Many a chronic "pain in the neck" is traceable to poor posture. The least tiring and most attractive stance is straight but not ramrod-stiff, with rib cage lifted out of abdomen, hips slightly forward and knees pushed back. Never rest your weight on one leg. Sit straight from hips to neck, pivoting from hips when you lean forward. Slouching back or leaning forward with curved spine will crowd lungs, burden heart, strain the small of the back and court muscle cramps by inhibiting the flow of blood,

Whenever you must move a heavy load, bear in mind that it's easier to push than to pull. In lifting, stand close to the object. When picking something up or putting it down, let leg and thigh muscles-the strongest you have-take the brunt of the load by bending at the knees and pushing up or down with your leg muscles. Keep your back straight and the load close to your body. Don't twist your body; if you must change direction, turn with change of Housewives should remember that standing up to do a task takes 14% more energy than sitting down. (In the case of overweight women, the excess energy expenditure may be as large as 35%!) Find the best tool for each job: for instance, long-handled dust-brooms and sponge-mops save strain on back and leg muscles). Cut down on leg-tiring stairway travel by having a full set of cleaning supplies on each floor. Save steps by finishing each room before you tackle another, wearing a many-pocketed tote apron in which you can stash brushes, dustcloths, or knicknacks that belong in another room. Her'e another muscle-saver: empty the trash from each room into a large paper shopping bag, then carry these bags pieces. This mixture may be (so much lighter than any wastepaper basket) to the incinerator or stored, covered in your refrigeraoutdoor trash can.

Tense muscles (the kind most subject to strain) can be willed relaxed. Does one set of muscles—jaw, forehead or fingers, for instance—clench when you concentrate? Consciously tighten them even more—then let go. It's a sure relaxer! The same trick can be used to prepare tense muscles for a rstful night's sleep. quietly in bed, legs straight, arms at your sides. Starting with your feet and working towards the head, contract one set of muscles at a time, then relax them. They'll usually stay relaxed throughout your eight hours of shuteye.

The right kind of exercise limbers your muscles, but the wrong kind only ties them up in knots. Weekend athletes and Sunday gardeners must be especially careful to take their unaccustomed exertions in small doses. If you're over 40, it's a good idea to pick golf or tennis partners your own age-don't try to keep up with a younger and springier set of muscles. Avoid strenuous exercise after a bout with fever or a general infection of any kind. Exerting yourself before your doctor gives the green light may bring on muscle pain that could last for weeks. Whatever your age or state of health, go in for moderate, rhythmic exercises like walking, swimming, skating or bicycling.

Being only human, you're bound to muscle in where you shouldn't, sooner or later. Proper bandages are important for all sprains and strains. An elastic bandage is good because it "gives" as the sprain continues to swell for a time, whereas a regular bandage doesn't. Unlike the elastic adhesive bandage the newer PEG bandage made by Becton, Dickinson, the manufacturer of the ACE bandage adheres to itself, not the skin. It's also cooler than conventional bandages because it requires less overlapping. Remember to make sure that the bandage is not tied so tightly that it will compromise circulation or increase swelling.

If someone sprains his ankle, put him to bed immediately. Elevate the leg and ankle, apply ice bags, wind a snug resilient bandage around the foot and ankle in figure-eight style, and call the

For knee sprains, star a three-inch-wide elastic bandage several inches below the joint and carry, circular fashion, to a point well above the knee.

But if you follow the foregoing rules, you'll achieve what under other circumstances might seem impossible: getting along with your "better half" without tying the knot.

CHALLENGING TIMES.

Our nation today is being chal-lenged on many fronts. In Vietnam, we are facing up to the armed challenge of Communism. At home, there are Americans who question our role in Vieta role we are asserting as a world leader for peace and freedom. We face many other domestic and foreign challenges. Today, as in other crucial times, the United States needs dedicated and effective leadership. As SERVICE, an organization of 1,350,000 men who have fought our nation's wars, the Veterans of Foreign Wars in providing a part of that leadership. Thus, the theme of our membership campaign this year is "Leadershipof The Times." We NEED membership to have strength.

We're looking for new Indians - HOW? By getting new members, that's how. We've got enough chiefs . . .

MEMBERSHIP RECRUITING IS SERIOUS BUSINESS:

A great many comrades have done an outstanding job of recruiting V.F.W. members but some of us have been guilty at times of selling a membership and neglecting to sell the V.F.W. Following are some of the ingredients which go to make up a good membership recruiter:

LOYALTY-One of the prime requisites in selling anything is loyalty. A good membership recruiter will convey to his prospect the loyalty HE has for the V.F.W. He will NOT blame any shortcomings on individuals or officers but will point out that an honest effort is being made to overcome any of these shortcomings. The prospect respects loyalty and integrity.

KNOWLEDGE - A most important aspect to recruiting is knowledge. Recruiters must have thorough knowledge of the V.F.W. and this should be evident to the prospect. The recruiter must ACCURATELY and correctly convey to the prospect what membership in the V.F.W.

SERVICE — Recruiters should be quick to point out to the prospect the services carried on through the V.F.W. Our organization is PROUD of the services we have performed in the field of Rehabilitation, Community Service, and Youth Pro-Americanism, Veterans Legislation and other worthy projects we undertake ENTHUSIASM - Here is the greatest selling agent in the whole world. An enthusiastic recruiter who reflects pride in the V.F.W. and its programs will be welcomed by any prospect.

CONFIDENCE-The successful membership recruiter will be confident because he knows his organization and its programs. His approach will instill this same type of confidence in his

CHARACTER - There is a

F. W. Gives Leadership IN little bit of boy scout in every good membership recruiter. He is always prepared to assist the prospect with those problems related to veterans — he will be honest in his dealings with the prospect and to himself. He will watch his jokes — some people don't like rough jokes, Good char-acter is an essential for any of us if we are to enjoy a happy and successful life, a strong Post and Auxiliary.

LOYALTY, KNOWLEDGE, ENTHUSIASM. CONFIDENCE AND CHARAC-TER - These are the very important ingredients possessed by successful membership recruiter. Convey to the prospective members that we possess these ingredients and we will in most cases recruit HIM into our ranks. When he has joined us we should make sure that he is made part of the team by offering the opportunity to serve on a com-mittee. THAT'S WHY WE NEED MORE INDIANS

AN UNEXPECTED GUEST

Wood ducks are where you find them, but who would expect to find one in the living room of his summer camp? Clayton Phillips, Conservation Officer from Newport, N. H., centainly didn't. With his 15 and 16 year old sons and his two German Short-hair dogs, Clayton entered his Stoddard camp one day. After the fashion of dogs, the Shorthairs began sniffing and poking into all the corners of all the rooms. Suddenly they began barking and carrying on. One of the boys, investigating the commotion, yelled: "Hey, Dad! There's a duck in here."

Huddled in a corner, trying desperately to be inconspicuous, was a very frightened wood duck. For a while there was quite a melee as the dogs, the duck, and the Phillips' went around and round the room. Finally, after banishing the dogs to the yard the tired rejoin its own kind.

How did the duck get into the tightly closed camp? As far as Clayton can figure, the only possible means of entry was the 20 foot fireplace chimney.

INDIAN GUIDES

Over 500 brochures and letters have been sent out to parents of 1st and 2nd grade boys in Aga-wam. The Agawam Branch YMCA is now in the process of expanding its program with Fathers and Son Y-Indian Guides, This is a National program which is developed for the busy but thinking fathers of today. It gives him an opportunity to be a companion to his son at an age when the boy is most receptive to this kind of relationship.

PROGRAM

Just as the colorful life of the Indian revolved around the "Wig-wam" or "Tepee," the Indian Guide "Tribal Meetings" are held in the homes of the "Braves." These meetings are held twice a month. For an investment of as little as three hours each month, there'll be memories that Dad will hold dear.

FIRST MEETING

A meeting is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 16 at the Agawam YMCA Acivities Room, 108 Perry Lane, beginning at 8 p.m. This meeting is for adults only. If the husband is not going to be available that night, the wife may substitute. This meeting is specifically to explain the Indian Guide Program and how it will benefit you and your son. For people interested in learning how to square dance, classes are being held each Monday night at 8 at the Sacred Heart Church Hall on William St. Al Bessette, our Club Caller is on hand to teach the basic movements of western style square dancing. We can think of no finer form of fun than square dancing. Square dancing seems to attract only the very nicest people.

Experienced dancers are reminded that the Promenaders will hold their regular dance on Friday the 13th (Who picked that date?) at 8 p.m. at the Robinson Park School on Begley

A future attraction at the Promenaders that area square dancers will not want to miss is the "Dance of the Fifties" scheduled for Oct. 27th with caller Dick Davis of East Walpole, Mass. These dances, with many of the old time numbers, have been a huge success in the Eastern part of the state. The Aga-Promenaders are very pleased to be able to present this type of dance to all our square dancing friends. Dick Davis reminds us that no matter how long it's been since you have square danced, you can still enjoy yourself at this old timers dance. In fact, you'll probably do better than many newer dancers.

Cost of 'Air' Rises

PITTSBURGH-"Free air" at gas stations may become another relic of the "good old days."

Gulf Oil Corporation is test marketing nitrogen inflation for tires. The company says its dealers will charge for the inflation but expects pure nitrogen to guarantee longer tire life and reduce failures.

The normal 20 percent oxygen centent of air causes deterioration of tire rubber and fabric, a major cause of tire failure, Gulf researchers say. Nitrogen is a less active gas.

COOKING HINTS

Mix white viengar with sugar to taste in a small jar; add thin onion rings; refrigerate over-night. Delicious with hamburgers!

Cream sauce for seafood tastes especially good when sauteed green pepper and canned pimento (both diced) are added. Slivered nipe olives also make an excellent addition.

Fresh tuna steaks may be marinated in a mixture of olive ple who attended the event. In-old, oil, lemon juice and crushed garlic before they are grilled.

Ever add flaked coconut to but-tered chopped cooked spinach? Interesting combination to serve with curried chicken and rice.

Beatle Take Nears Million

LONDON-The publisher of Beatle music has estimated the earnings of the four pop stars from Liverpool at between 25 million and 30 million ($70 to $84 million) over the past five in the Agawam Historical Association's tour of Old Deerfield, Why, of course the day turned Springfield. out to be a beautiful one indeed!

Dick James, chairman of Northern Songs, said the figure could be as high as 50 million but stressed it was only an approximation.

Five homes were visited by the ed were the following: the Ashley House (1732), Dwight-Barnard House (1754) Hall Tavern (18th century), Asa Stebbins House (1790's) and the Wells-Thorn House (1717). All of these homes belong to the Heritage Founda-tion of Deerfield. The tour began at 9:30 a.m. and lasted throughout the beautiful fall day terminating at 3 p.m. that afternoon. A fine New England pot roast dinner was served in the old and picturesque Deerfield Inn.
